DIRECTOR'S NOTE

The idea of 'Coincide' stemmed from seeing an increase in suicide amongst young people aged 16 - 30. I had come across a number of stories via social media of sad stories leading up to a young person committing suicide. This led me to question why so many young people were resorting to suicide and whether people were afraid of admitting that they were facing depression. Was it because depression was stigmatised and would people be more open to speak about their depression if they knew other people they came in to contact with also felt the same way. This is where the idea of two sufferers of depression, from different walks of life, meeting by coincidence and confiding in each other.

FAQs

Did Ray & Leila plan to meet?

No, they were both speaking to different people whilst on the phone. Ray's friends had cancelled on him as he wasn't answering previously. Leila was expecting her friend to show up at the bar and arrived earlier than her friend who ended up cancelling on her too.

What influenced you to shoot such a sensitive topic?

Before the idea was created, I was thinking about what type of films would resonate with an audience of young people. At the time I had read a story about a young person committing suicide and it seemed that I was reading these stories a lot more frequently. As I knew we all experienced times when we felt at a low point I felt it was the right topic to base a film around especially as the topic was shied away from.

LAWRENCE FOLASHADE

Lawrence Folashade, 22 years of age, currently in his final year as a university drama student. With zero experience acting on screen, he uses this opportunity to learn; also to display the skills attained throughout my six-year study. Throughout the six years, Lawrence has had the luck of being given the opportunity to partake in several projects, most notable his involvement with the Miskin Theatre at the 2012 National Student Drama Festival.

JESSICA PRICE

Jessica Price - Having trained both at the University of Exeter and then at ALRA, Jessica has gone on to work across the board in film, theatre and voice over work.

Most recently Jessica has performed as part of 'Standing Ovation,' an all female new writing comedy night, RE:Act Sideways an evening of new writing at the St. James Theatre and performing my own writing in Monologue Slam: The Winners Edition at the Theatre Royal Stratford East. Recent film credits include: Reflections and Think Tank.

Jessica will soon be back performing with Shakespeare REP The Merely Players in 'The Merry Wives of Windsor' at Theatre N16, coming June 2017.

DEJI AFEEZ

DIRECTOR, WRITER & PRODUCER

DejFM is a 20 year old Director/Filmmaker based in London. From the early age of 15 Deji began building Flawless Multimedia a platform for local musicians to showcase their work, soon accumulating over 2.5million views on YouTube.

During this time Deji found his passion for films, and began working on several different projects away from music videos. Years on Deji still controls 'Flawless Multimedia but has continued to expand the brand creating the partner group 'Film Mongers' which specialises in shooting films, private events such as weddings and more. With a variety of skills acquired over the years Deji continues on following his passion for film and knocking any doors down on the way.
